Do you find yourself with a DSLR and no video experience? If so, I've got news for you. You no longer have to pay thousands of dollars on video equipment just to shoot some video. All you need is a Raspberry Pi, a webcam, and a few accessories. This method is a little more complex than the previous one, but is more flexible and will give you a solid video foundation. This method is all about making your DSLR act like a video camera. All you need to get started is the Raspberry Pi, a webcam, and your power bank. You will need to use an HDMI extension cord with the webcam hooked up to it, and another power cord if you don't have one already. We will be using the Raspberry Pi Zero and Wifi Adapter, so everything will be done with Pi Zero or Zero W devices. I've also used the Raspberry Pi Camera Module, but I will show in the video how the camera module can be used if you don't want to use the zero. Let's get started! "Adapting a formula created by the German philosopher Friedrich Nietzsche, Dr. Henry Schlangen, founder of the cult of Bali, created the substance 'Vertigo'. With this new discovery comes its use for the next and greatest game, the game of humanity. In an attempt to dominate, he created his own image, a female image." You wake up one morning and your first instinct is to kill someone, your name is... Jack. This all comes to a head when you discover that your name is Jack. And you are dead. You're not dead though, you're still you. It's just that there are 2 you's. Jack 1, and Jack 2. Jack 2 is dead. That's just the bad news. Now here's the good news. You're not dead. You're inside Dr. Henry Schlangen's Artificial Consciousness Experiment. This is what you have spent all of your life preparing for. Schlangen told you once you die, you would be sent to the Void. The Void is like the Netherworld or what you would get if you died and went to Hell. You must find your way out, with the help of one of the other living participants. You are the only person in this experiment to be able to communicate with the other participants. Using this you will try to build the perfect human consciousness, solve mysteries, solve puzzles, and solve what Schlangen's motives are for this experiment. The participants all have different personalities and views of the world. Some are looking to find answers about their purpose in life, others are simply looking for a fight. You and the other participants have to work together in order to figure out how to escape the Void, but you don't know where you are, or who the participants are, or what the Void is. It is up to you to figure out how to solve this mystery, and you have to be careful, because just as you can explore and learn things about the world, so can others find out about you and use that information against you.
