De Mayerne, Manuscripts (Biography) This entry covers the life of Theodore De Mayerne (1594-1649), a French physician, who wrote a text on the use of medicinal herbs which was published in 1626. The following is a translation of De Mayerne's text. De Mayerne (1626): A treatise on the use of medicinal herbs. Every day I see how many people suffer from different diseases with no remedy that works. Without a doubt, it was the lack of diet and nutrition, poorly conducted living, negligence in their homes, and the bad habits they had been cultivating for many years, that made the patient become ill. Yet there are also many cases that result from an internal disease, either because of poor physical conditions, such as weakness, debility or fatigue, or as a result of some defect or weakness of the imagination, such as melancholy, melancholia, or worry, which continue to not agree with the patient's temperament. If you are aware of this, you will also note that almost
